

[illegible]

MISCELLANEOUS

From Arthur's Littles Gazette, THAT ALTERS THE CASE
BY T. S. ARTHUR
Concluded.

"Yes, boys," that alters the case; I hold now,
I love, and once again, I show How readily from him that surely meets at meineinander, Dallinor said: "I must see this."—This wrong must be repaired as soon as I can write. A few weeks' work will do it."

As I said, I made enquiries and I could learn that such a person was occurring with his wife and single mother in the third story of a third fading house. When I asked for him I saw, by the manner of the servant person, I wished to see him, but little in the house, I was sent up to his attended. On knocking at the door, I found by a pale, haggard man, poorly dressed, who seemed at finding the servants from a street you, home Tabor. He said, that is my name, he replied,
from Philadelphia.

[illegible][illegible]

"I would have readily offered a reward," Lee continued, "if I believed it better to leave him, perhaps an hour at a time, but I am not willing to do it as the day will hardly keep a good man out."

"This information was sufficient," he said to the young man, "and you deal me out to present notification if any exist against his leadership. Immediately that he was twenty dollars in arrears."

"This," I said, "is next to nothing, and I learned many interesting and new particulars of his wide 'miration. I shall change I fear to be necessary, therefore I leave them; a boarding-of two from the city in a beautiful manner. Somewhat the happily young remained there.

"I have felt authorized to do so on your behalf. I have further received your letter, and the effect of this letter on the mind of C. is peculiar in the extreme. He wrote me, enclosing a draft for five hundred dollars, and directing his correspondent to the amount as the 'cost' (in making his opinion of Tarbot, and promoting the cry of his war).

"Within six months I suffered under a severe physical, and the uttermost medicinal attention for my husband, in some degree, the condition was the injury wrought by Mr. Granger's entirely, beyond repair. Not only providing for the immediate and present of the young lady, and his family, he will, through business friends, be able to make another start for himself in And he is now doing very well. I have suffered, in consequence of hasty judgment, his lot makes us his, but nothing can efface thought of this often crosses, painful of Granger, and disturbs the eof his feelings. &c

It is so difficult to be careful in our judgment that it simply irritates the eye, and

[illegible]

...erborn passing through Springfield,
 ...sully, suddenly discovered a man
 ...e walk upon which appeared, the story
 ...poetry. He looked at the student
 ...d him, a complex, and cherie
 ...d they bury him here,
 ...s, 1827
 ...s, a sole scientist of Elden, taught
 ...f the Garden by God, himself, C
 ...f the arts of life, has been great
 ...col and college, and compelled to w

As Sally caught me eating. A I noticed a difference in your talk.
I had caught a young man for, I suppose, with a petticoat. It was more than fasten on your head a double-brockle. Says that the best vegetable ever invented is an apple dumpling.
Is destroying a knowing of the the only pill to be relied on.
Sally says that the best room in Lima is to honor the province of Peru. They go out in the Lima. They go out in the

NEWSP

